Caroline Morrison
Statement of Intent

My name is Caroline Morrison and I am your next SGA President. I’m incredibly proud of the work that I have accomplished over the last three years in SGA. For example, I was able to work with the University administration give FAC funding an additional $70,000, giving students unprecedented access to the resources needed to pursue their passions. I want to be your SGA President because I want to continue this work, so that every student can be heard, valued, and most of all, be able call The University of Alabama HOME.

My HOME platform is comprised of four parts: Health, Opportunity, Memory and Empowerment. Centered around promoting a unified campus, HOME will give each student the power to take control of their education. For example, I will put in place “Student Empowerment Grants” that will give students access to resources, counseling and manpower that will take them from ideas to action. By utilizing existing organizations and university resources, I will be able to expand the reach of SGA and make it relevant in every student’s everyday life. As President, I vow to always work for and represent the students that make this university my home. Roll Tide, Let’s Go
